

Test Drive SOP

Syed Motors · Document Code: SOP-03 · Type: sop · Department: Sales

Purpose

How a prospect is offered a test drive, the documentation required, and the safety rules that must be followed.

Effective from the first working day of the current calendar year. Reviewed annually by the document owner and revised as necessary. Version 1.0.

1. Eligibility Check

Before a test drive is offered, the sales executive must verify the prospect's valid driving licence and CNIC. Photocopies are attached to the test drive log. A prospect without a valid licence cannot drive; a company driver may drive on their behalf.

The eligibility check takes place before the prospect is offered the driving opportunity. The sales executive verifies the required documents and records their photocopies in the test drive log.

The licence requirement determines whether the prospect may personally drive the vehicle. Where the prospect does not have a valid licence, the SOP provides an alternative: a company driver may drive on the prospect's behalf.

2. Route and Duration

Test drives follow one of the three pre-approved routes documented in Appendix A. Duration is capped at 30 minutes. Off-road or highway high-speed test drives are not permitted.

The approved-route requirement keeps test drives within the routes established by the procedure. The 30-minute cap defines the maximum duration of the drive.

The restrictions on off-road and highway high-speed driving apply to the test drive itself. The sales executive should ensure the prospect follows the permitted route and does not turn the test drive into an unauthorised driving activity.

3. Accompanying Executive

A sales executive must accompany the prospect at all times. The executive is responsible for briefing the prospect on controls before starting the engine, and for stopping the drive if the prospect drives unsafely.

1. Eligibility Check - Documentation

The eligibility stage establishes whether the prospect can personally operate the vehicle during the test drive. The sales executive verifies two documents: a valid driving licence and CNIC.

Driving licence. The sales executive must verify that the prospect has a valid driving licence before a test drive is offered. A prospect without a valid licence cannot drive.

CNIC. The sales executive must also verify the prospect's CNIC as part of the eligibility check.

Test drive log. Photocopies of the verified documents are attached to the test drive log. This creates the required documentary record for the test drive.

Company driver option. If the prospect does not have a valid licence, the prospect cannot drive. A company driver may drive on the prospect's behalf.

Eligibility Before Vehicle Movement

The eligibility check is a pre-drive step. It should be completed before the vehicle is put into the test-drive process so that the question of who will drive is established in advance.

The documentation requirement and the driving-authorisation requirement are related but distinct. The documents are verified and copied to the log, while the licence status determines whether the prospect may personally drive.

2. Route and Duration - Approved Driving Conditions

The SOP identifies three pre-approved routes documented in Appendix A. Test drives follow one of these routes and have a maximum duration of 30 minutes.

The route restriction provides a defined boundary for the test drive. Off-road test drives are not permitted, and highway high-speed test drives are not permitted.

The sales executive accompanying the prospect should therefore remain aware of both the approved route and the duration cap during the drive.

3. Accompanying Executive - Safety Responsibilities

A sales executive must accompany the prospect at all times during the test drive. The accompanying executive has an active safety responsibility throughout the drive.

Before starting. The executive briefs the prospect on vehicle controls before the engine is started. This briefing takes place before the driving portion begins.

During the drive. The executive remains with the prospect at all times. The executive is responsible for observing the drive and maintaining the safety conditions required by the SOP.

Unsafe driving. If the prospect drives unsafely, the executive is responsible for stopping the drive. The procedure therefore gives the accompanying executive authority to end the test drive when unsafe driving occurs.

Safety Briefing

The pre-drive controls briefing is part of the SOP rather than an optional customer-service step. The prospect should receive the briefing before starting the engine so that the relevant vehicle controls have been introduced before movement begins.

The accompanying executive remains responsible for the test-drive safety process after the briefing. The briefing does not remove the executive's responsibility to stop the drive if unsafe driving occurs.

4. Post-Drive

On return the vehicle is inspected, fuel level checked, and the odometer reading logged. Any damage, however minor, is reported immediately to the sales manager. The prospect is thanked and offered follow-up material.

The post-drive stage creates a record of the vehicle's condition and usage after the test drive. The vehicle inspection, fuel-level check, and odometer reading are separate checks that form part of the return process.

4. Post-Drive - Return Procedure

The post-drive procedure begins when the vehicle returns. The sales team checks the vehicle and records the required information before completing the customer interaction.

Vehicle inspection. The vehicle is inspected on return. The inspection provides the opportunity to identify any damage associated with the test drive.

Fuel level. The fuel level is checked after the vehicle returns. This is a defined part of the post-drive record.

Odometer. The odometer reading is logged. This creates a record of the vehicle's reading following the test drive.

Damage reporting. Any damage, however minor, is reported immediately to the sales manager. The SOP does not limit reporting to major damage.

Customer follow-up. The prospect is thanked and offered follow-up material after the test drive.

Complete Test Drive Cycle

The SOP can be understood as a continuous sequence: verify eligibility and document the required information, use an approved route within the 30-minute cap, keep a sales executive with the prospect, provide the controls briefing, stop unsafe driving where necessary, and complete the return checks.

Each stage has a separate purpose. Eligibility establishes who may drive, route and duration establish where and how long the test drive takes, the accompanying executive provides supervision, and post-drive checks document the vehicle's return condition.

Documentation and Accountability

The test drive log contains the photocopies required by the eligibility check. The post-drive stage adds vehicle-related information through the fuel-level check and odometer reading. Damage is escalated immediately to the sales manager when identified.
